Grace Between Two Prayers

We are entirely dependent upon something we easily distort: the grace of God. An excellent vantage point for reflection on the nature of that grace may be found in the space between two prayers of Jesus, both offered the same night.

The first request is made in a very emotional setting. It is after the supper with his disciples and his farewell conversation with them, but just before they go out across the brook to the garden. The Lord, with his eyes lifted up to heaven, prays, "Father, I desire that they also, whom you have given me, may be with me where I am, to see my glory that you have given me because you loved me before the foundation of the world" (John 17:24).

The other petition is made in the garden itself. Now the Lord, having withdrawn from his friends about a stone's throw, and being in an agony, kneels down and prays. He says, "Father, if you are willing, remove this cup from me. Nevertheless, not my will, but yours, be done" (Luke 22:42). Mark adds that this appeal is made with an "Abba, Father" spirit and with an "all things are possible for you" confession (Mark 14:36).

The Father has to answer the second prayer in a certain way in order to be able to answer the first one at all. He strengthens his Beloved so that he can drink the cup of judgment that cannot be removed. Not, that is, while still granting that first request that imperfect men may be with his Son in glory, which he wills to do.

The awe-inspiring nature of his grace is apparent from this vantage point. There is no suggestion in it that evil may be taken lightly. There is no thought of it as an easy sentiment that overlooks reality. Grace addresses the reality of evil at the highest cost in order to show the deepest kindness to those who committed it.

We are fortunate debtors who owe undivided and unending loyalty to the One who would bless us in such a manner.

Meal Train for the T. Morrison Family

So many of you have asked how you can help the Morrison's with meals, & we have it set up & ready to go! There is a link provided that all you have to do is click & sign up for a date. Travis was given a freezer from the Ash Grove 4-H so we are thinking that freezer meals would be the easiest. If you are wanting to do a fresh meal, that's fine too! You will just need to contact Travis personally to set up a time to meet or make sure someone is home. You can even just cook up some extra meat or chop up veggies & freeze those too for them! Lots of options to help them out. If you do a freezer type meal, the following instructions will make it smoother for them.

--Please label what the food is
--Put specific instructions on the bags on how to heat up or cook
--Make sure the temperature & length to cook the meal is also included.

We know many of you have been asking & we hope this helps you be able to provide that service for them. Of course, if you have any questions you may ask me or Glenda Thurlkill. Thank you church family for all you do & have done for the Morrisons.
