This Week

Welcome to Daylight Saving Time! One good thing about it is that seasons are changing and spring can't be too far around the corner. Another is that it will still be light when we meet in the evenings. In the meantime, I hope it doesn't seem way too long until lunch, and happy spring break!

Please be aware of the following events that involve all of us. First, here are the dates ahead in our deacon-selection process. We've all been asked to pray over it and to get our names to our elders by the evening of March 20. They will meet March 22 to work through our ideas and to begin talking with the brothers we've suggested. Their names and possible roles will be presented to us on April 3. We'll be given a brief time to offer our responses, and as soon as that's done these special servants will be appointed—and many prayers will be answered. Remember that you're always welcome to talk with us about any questions or suggestions you may have.

This Wednesday we'll get back to our normal groups at class time. Thank you so much for your cooperation in what we've just done. Next Sunday evening we'll have our first youth led service of this year. I hope you'll join us, not only to serve the Lord, but also to encourage these young people and their families.

I'm looking forward to our singing weekend activities March 26-27. It's for everyone, young or older. Lance Parrish of the Hillcrest congregation in Abilene will be with us. That Saturday at 3:00 we'll get together in a workshop setting to learn several songs. There'll be a break for us to go get something for dinner. We'll gather back at 6:30 for an area-wide singing and prayer time. Then in our service that Sunday morning, Lance will lead our singing and Justin will present the lesson for us. It will be a great time for us.

Everyone please be aware that on April 3 we'll begin passing the elements of the Lord's supper as we did before. The packets we've been using will still be available for anyone who prefers their use, and you'll be welcome to pick one up that morning. Either way, remembering together will be up to us.

--Bill
