This Week

This Lord's day and next we're going to focus on two gardens. They can't have been very far apart geographically, nor are they in scripture. But what went on in each place certainly contrasts with the other, and the emotions we walk away from each garden with couldn't be more different. What happened in both of them is central to our faith and our hope. I look forward to remembering these two stories with you.

As you know, last Sunday our elders presented us with possible additional deacons and their tasks. It was a big day for us, and this is an important time. It's the fruit of all of us thinking together about our congregation, the needs and opportunities before us, and what the Lord wants. The announcement that was made is available for you in printed form at the information desk. Our elders have invited feedback from everyone, but it needs to get to them by the end of this Sunday so they can continue with their work. I thank them and all of you who have helped with this process.

Spring is a great time for renewal. Many of us do some form of it in our routines at this time of year: lawn, garage, closet, wardrobe, etc. We can do it in our spiritual lives, too. Here are some ideas. Invite a friend to come to services with you. Renew your participation in classes. Meet new people. Call, visit, or write a card to someone. Encourage someone. Pray more consistently. Get back to your daily Bible reading.

Speaking of which, we've had some great verses in our readings this past week. Here some of the ones I needed most. "And why are you anxious...? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they neither toil or spin, yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." "So whatever you wish that others would do to you, do also to them, for this is the Law and the Prophets." "May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope." "The God of peace will soon crush Satan under your feet. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you."
